

Winners named in Woodridge Idol contest

Mariah Pulice, 13, in Darien, and Fleurdeliz Licuanan, 15, in Woodridge, won the top prizes in the Second Annual Woodridge Idol Contest, conducted July 15 as part of the Woodridge Jubilee.

Pulice won top honors in the youth division by singing "Beautiful Disaster."

Licuanan earned the top prize in the adult division -- those 15 and older -- with her performance of "I Will Survive."

Both were given a $200 gift certificate from Target store in Woodridge.

Julia Cedillo, organizer of the event, said 10 contestants competed in the youth division, and nine in the adult.

"The level of talent was very high, and all the performers put on quite a show. We will do it again next year," she said.

A three-person panel judged the competition, and included John Perry, Woodridge village administrator, Joe Saenz, Woodridge police officer, and Kiersten Regelin, Woodridge Area Chamber of Commerce president.
